If you are an unauthorised recipient please destroy all email in electronic and hard copy format which you have received as an unauthorised recipient and / or have printed without authority.

6. Monitoring and Interception

To comply with law and in line with international standards and best practice relating to the use of information technology in its business activities, Smartcall monitors and intercepts live communications such as Interactive Voice Response (IVR), Short Message Service (SMS), Unstructured Supplementary Service Data (USSD), Wireless Application Protocol (WAP), Online Based Billing (OBB), Events Based Billing (EBB), Location Based Services (LBS), email, website and WAP Site activity in compliance with of the Regulation of Interception of Communications and Provision of Communication-related Information Act, 70 of 2002.

Subject to the provisions of the Electronic Communications and Transactions Act, 25 of 2002 and South African and international privacy principles Smartcall will, where necessary and / or if required by law, access static data created, received, communicated and stored by Smartcall as part of its business.

7. Your Privacy

Resultant from Smartcall's practice of accessing static information and monitoring and intercepting live communications, including email, is that you have no expectation of privacy with respect to communications to and from Smartcall. If you do not agree to this limitation of your constitutional right to privacy, regulated in terms of the above-named Acts, you should not communicate with Smartcall via email or other forms of electronic communication.

Notwithstanding the fact that Smartcall respects your privacy, it also has an obligation to identify and to limit risk related to the use of email and other forms of electronic communication in its business. As such, it seeks to find a balance between these opposing rights and obligations.

8. Warrantees and Representations

No warranties are made or implied that any employee or contractor of Smartcall is or was authorised to create and / or send this email.

9. Unauthorised Use of Smartcall Email Systems

Smartcall regulates its internal environment in accordance with South African law and Smartcall's policies, procedures, guidelines and technologies. Authorised users of Smartcall's email systems are subject to these instruments which regulate the acceptable use of email. In the event that Smartcall's policy and rules on the acceptable use of email is contravened by users, the users will be liable. Smartcall's directors and management shall not accept liability arising from such contravention.

10. Damages Arising from Email from Smartcall

Email technologies and the use of related telecommunication systems and networks expose Smartcall to dynamic security and business risk. Smartcall manages this risk, in accordance with South African law, through its policies, procedures and guidelines to prevent unauthorised access to or abuse of its systems and networks.

Smartcall is committed to the highest standard of its duty of care and, as such, Smartcall will not be held liable for damages arising from the use of email.

11. Transmission and Receipt of Email from Smartcall

In accordance with the Electronic Communications and Transactions Act 25 of 2002, email is deemed received only when receipt is confirmed orally or in writing. Email is deemed sent as and when reflected in Smartcall's mail server logs.

Furthermore, email is deemed as having been sent from the originator's usual place of business or residence and as having been received at the addressee's usual place of business or residence.

12. Requirements for Valid Agreements

It is Smartcall's policy that no binding agreements will be entered into through the use of email. Any offers made or received will be regarded merely as part of the process of negotiation. The conclusion of agreements negotiated by email must be reduced to writing, printed on paper and signed by hand with ink.
